First Announcement

THIRD PRAGUE SYMPOSIUM ON ASYMPTOTIC STATISTICS

The third in the series of conferences organized by the Department of Probability and Mathematical Statistics of the Charles University is scheduled for August 29–September 2, 1983 to Kutná Hora, a historical town distant 60 km from Prague. The Symposium will be held under the auspices of the Bernoulli Society for Mathematical Statistics and Probability, and of the Czechoslovak Federal Statistical Bureau. It will be devoted to recent developments of asymptotic methods in mathematical statistics and in the theory of random process. There will be several invited lectures and a larger number of short contributed papers.

Those wishing to obtain further information should contact the Scientific Secretary of the Symposium
