Preliminary announcement and call for papers

Second Symposium on Mathematical Fundamentals of Database Theory

Visegrád, Hungary, June 26—30, 1989

The symposium is intended to provide a European forum on Database Theory and its extensions to Modelling and Knowledge Bases, with a bridge to US database community. Papers presenting original research in database theory are being sought. Suggested areas include: deductive database and knowledge-based systems, algebraic, combinatorial and logical fundamentals of database theory, complexity theory, algorithms for transaction processing, distributed databases, query processing, concurrency control, searching strategies, security, privacy, safety, fundamentals of object oriented models, semantical models, complex objects, nested relations, design theory.

Authors should send five copies of an extended abstract or full draft paper by December 1, 1988 to one of the Program Committee Chairs:

János Demetrovics

Computer and Automation Institute of HAS
Budapest, P. O. B. 63, H-1502, Hungary

Bernhard Thalheim, visiting professor

Department of Mathematics, Kuwait University
P. O. B. 5969, Kuwait 13060.

Authors will be notified of acceptance or rejection by February 15, 1989. A copy of each accepted paper will be due to March 20, 1989, to be included in the Proceedings published by Springer-Verlag. For further information please contact Helga Hatvany (MFDBS-89), Computer and Automation Institute of HAS, Budapest, P.O.B.63, H-1502, Hungary.

Předběžné oznámení

Logica '88

Ve dnech 12.—14. září 1988 pořádá Ústav pro filozofii a sociologii ČSAV 2. setkání logiků filozofického a matematického zaměření „Logica '88“. Sympozium se bude konat v Domě čs. spisovatelů na Dobříšsku. Žádáme zájemce o účast na sympoziu, aby zaslali přihlášky (s udáním jména, pracoviště a event. názvu přednášky) na adresu: Ivo Zapletal, odd. logiky ÚFS ČSAV, Jilská 1, 110 00 Praha 1.
